| ULO 1: Writing          | 1.1 - Purpose                            | • Compose a focused, answerable, media-related research question
• Gather, categorize, and appraise background literature related to the research question
• Compile and analyze secondary and/or primary data to generate theory/policy/historical conclusions
• Integrate analysis and literature
• Compose a focused media treatment for feasible production
• Compose/create clear, focused, appropriate preproduction materials (script/documentary outline, shot list, shooting schedule, interview questions)
• Produce a rough edit version of his or her project
• Create a final media production. | • Research paper proposal collected and reviewed by instructor
• Proposed research question iteratively revised by students with feedback from instructor and peers
• Research paper proposal to include a FLW action list reviewed by instructor
• Research paper draft to include text describing the literature and background for the proposed research topic
• Final research paper graded based on innovation and ability of students to place research in context
• Treatment collected and reviewed by instructor
• Proposed creative project iteratively revised by students with feedback from instructor and peers
• Preproduction materials collected and reviewed by instructor
• Proposed creative project iteratively revised by students with feedback from instructor
• Project graded based on innovation, creativity, aesthetics, and ability of students to effectively and appropriately communicate/emote a substantive narrative/idea/concept through the medium
• Project graded based on innovation, creativity, aesthetics, and ability of students to effectively and appropriately communicate/emote a substantive narrative/idea/concept through the medium. | • Examples of research questions
• Examples of proposals Class discussion of
• the proposal process
• Peer and instructor feedback of draft papers
